

CoMotion at the University of Washington is the collaborative innovation hub dedicated to expanding the economic and societal impact of the UW community and beyond.

REMEMBERING VIKRAM JANDHYALA

As we mourn the loss of Vikram Jandhyala, we want to share some of the many wonderful tributes that have been written. We thank you for your kindness and support, and for sharing your stories and your remembrances of Vikram. The University is also working closely with Vikram's family to make plans for a public celebration of Vikram's life and achievements. We will share that information once details have been confirmed.

We also want to assure our CoMotion community that we are here to serve you. During this time of transition, CoMotion leaders Fiona Wills and Lara Littlefield will be working as a team directly with University of Washington President Ana Mari Cauce and UW Provost Mark Richards to provide leadership continuity to the office and strong innovation expertise to the UW community and beyond.

MEET A COMOTION TEAM MEMBER

TEAM MEMBER PATRICK CHINKIWSKY

Patrick is a key member of the Patent Portfolio Management group. He has experience drafting and prosecuting patent applications across a range of engineering innovations and managing outside counsel on patent prosecution of a variety of UW innovations. He earned his B.Sc. in Mechanical Engineering at Queen's University before going on to multiple positions with John Deere Limited in Canada and the U.S. While at John Deere, Patrick developed an innovation while working on a product program and was granted a patent in a handful of jurisdictions. After moving to the Seattle area, Patrick earned a law degree from Seattle University School of Law in 2016. Patrick shares: "I am continually energized by the work I do at CoMotion. The CoMotion team, the impact we strive for, and the University's promising innovations provide strong motivation for me day to day."
